- Opened to ocean-going vessels on April 25, 1959
- Officially dedicated on June 26, 1959
 - Dignitaries who attended the ceremony included:
 - Queen Elizabeth II
 - U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower
 - Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker

Study Overview

- Study consists of a survey of fictional and non-fictional audiovisual depictions of the St. Lawrence Seaway and its environs
 - Survey includes works produced from the late 1890s until 2009
- Goal of the Study
 - To gain historical insights into the number and nature of the audiovisual works devoted either fully or in part to the St. Lawrence Seaway and its surrounding region

Survey Methodology

- Survey includes 108 audiovisual works of varying media formats/types and languages
- Information about individual works derived from:
 - Canadian and U.S. archive and library databases
 - Print and online film and television catalogs, directories, and databases
 - Sundry print and online sources, including:
 - Journals
 - Magazines
 - Newspapers
 - Websites

Survey Methodology

- The following information about each work was entered into an Excel worksheet for subsequent analysis:

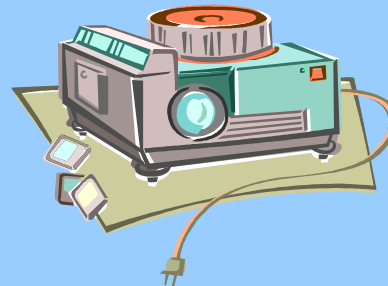

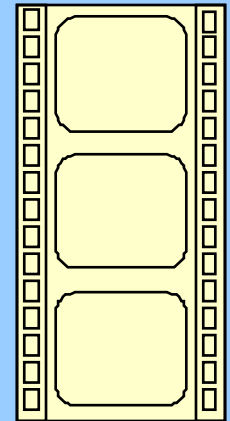

Production date	Production responsibility	Primary subject/Theme of the work
Format/Type of work	Producer(s)	Target audience of the work
Language	Director(s)	Summary of the work
Running time/Length	Writer(s)	Miscellaneous notes

- A catalog of all works included in the survey is available at http://www.personal.psu.edu/mat1/StLawrenceSeaway_Filmography.pdf

Survey Findings
